Summary

This story begins with Children Margie and Tommy. This had happened in the future World where computers dominate everything. Moreover, it is also shown how the perception of schools and classrooms has completely changed.

It was in 2157 that Margie wrote in her diary about Tommy's discovery of a book. This book is about Tommy's grandfather's little boy. Margie learns how they use all the stories to print on paper.

Also, they read the book themselves and turn the pages and have fun.

It was fun because they are not yet in the habit of reading words, it is only in motion on one screen. In the future, we will learn that there are no books, only telebooks. They store them in TV sets and computers. After that, it takes an interesting turn when they discuss school. Margie knows that schools were very different then.

They had real men who were teachers. This is amazing because she only has robots to teach her. Marge was frustrated. "School? What do you write about school? I hate school."

Margie has always hated school, but now she hates it more than ever. After a test in geography, the machine teacher gave her a test and she did worse and worse until her mother shook her head sadly and sent her to the county inspector.

There was a round little man with a red face. The county Inspector has dials and wires with him and he was smiling at Margie and gave an apple to her then he took the teacher upon Margie have been hoping he wouldn't know to put them together.

But he knew how alright and after one hour or so there it was again large and black and ugly within a big screen on which lessons were being shown.

The most hated part of a Margie was mostly she wants to put her homework and test papers all in a slot and she was had to write them out in a punch code which has been learned in 6 years old the mechanical teacher has been calculating the mass in no time.

The Inspector had smiled after he finished the work of the mechanical teacher. and Pated Margie head he was saying to her mother it's not a little girl's fault Mrs. Jones.

I think that the Geography chapter was being geared and those things happen sometimes I have been Slow it up to an average 10-year level. so actually, the overall pattern of her progress will be satisfactory and he pated the margie's head again. she was disappointed because he think that the county Inspector cannot able repair the machine.

The county Inspector will take them a machine for one month so the girl is very happy but suddenly the county Inspector was repaired by the mechanical teacher.

Here two children were discussing the old kind of schools. The children's grandfathers were kids and studied in schools where teachers are human. not like the mechanical teacher. But the Margie and Tommy teachers were mechanical teachers.

At last, Margie did so with a sigh. She was always thinking about the old schools and suddenly her mom called for another online class.

She has been going to the class and listening by thinking about the old school kind of school. About the boys and girls discussing homework and playing in an old school and ask questions.

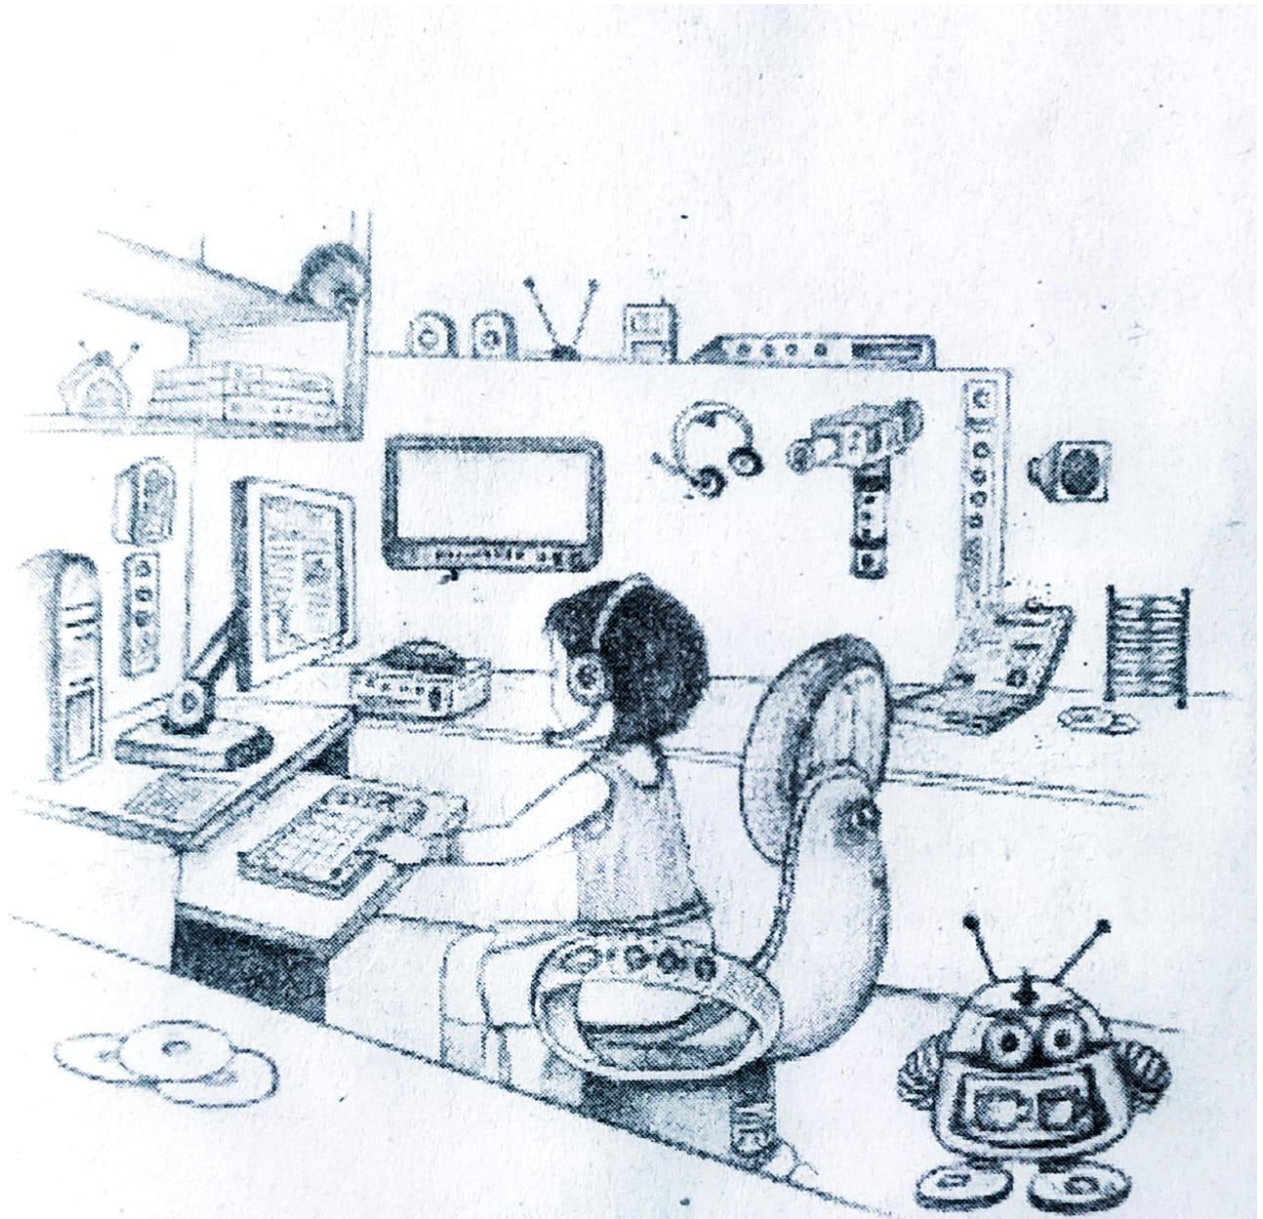

Here are the two children realizing that the old kind of school is the real school of fun and thinking about the fun they had in old kinds of school.

Conclution

The last time she was a little boy she was always thinking about the old schools their grandparents had. All the children in the neighborhood sat together on the school campus and laughed and shouted.

At the end of the day, we will go home together. They learned the same things so they could help each other with homework and talk about it. And the teachers are people ...

The machine editor flashes on the screen: "When we add fractions ...". Margie was wondering how the kids in the old days must have liked it. She was watching them having fun. these notes will help you more
